ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF EDUCATION

FOR THE YEAR ENDING AUG. 1, 1897.

We take pleasure in again announcing to the people of the district that the schools are generally in a prosperous condition. It has been our purpose to employ good teachers, but it is unreasonable to suppose that a committee who hires twelve or more teachers in a year, will in every case engage those who will give perfect satisfaction.

The great essentials of a common school education ought to be, good reading, legible penmanship, and the easy and correct use of our language when speaking and writing. It requires great judgment to divide the time among the useful studies so as to give each its proper portion. We have known teachers to make grave mistakes in this respect. No one will deny the vast importance of being able to tell well what you know, to write it in good language so that others can readily read it, and to be able to read well.

These are truly great acquisitions.

Finally, let the schools be judged according to the good they have accomplished, not according to the imperfections that remain. If any would criticise, let them visit the school rooms, let them observe and reflect upon the labor that is to be performed, and the many difficulties that surround the position of a teacher. After having considered all the varied and often conflicting interests that must be considered, if they can see clearly any better way, let them kindly suggest it to those in charge of our schools, who make no claim to perfection, and who are always desiring to make the privileges of to-morrow better than those of to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hayes of New York, opened a school

a year ago in Waldron's Hill schoolhouse, a term of eleven weeks taught by M. Jennie Mason. This winter they have opened another school at the same place, taught by Miss Rowe, free to all town scholars. The school board commend Mr. and Mrs. Hayes for their generosity, and hope they may make it possible for a school permanent in town in the near future.
